FOREVER CHANGE THE WAY YOU GIVE PRESENTATIONS

Have you ever experienced a presentation that put you to sleep? Ever given one? Have you ever seen a presenter bring a boring subject to life? What's that difference? You are about to find out!

On April 26, 1992, Darren LaCroix made his stand-up comedy debut. It was, by all accounts, a disaster. Ten years later he "out-spoke" 25,000 contestants from fourteen countries in an international speech contest ... and was crowned the World Champion of Public Speaking.

Think you can't be a great speaker? Think again. Darren's first performance and his championship speech are absolute proof that presenting is a learned skill.

Darren studied ten years worth of World Champions contests over and over again. He discovered what separates the person who wins from the person who comes in second. The winners had three points in common. Want to know what they are? Come to the program and hear it directly from Darren!

"You can learn this stuff."

Darren LaCroix,

the 2001 World Champion of Public Speaking
