If you are coming from the PIE (going towards Changi),

- You will see a sign indicating the entrance to the university. A short but very winding road will bring you to Nanyang Drive.

Many huge signboards are placed along the main routes visitors would take as they come in through either of the two entrances to the university. You may use them for general directions. Drivers may also find the carpark guide (below) useful. The names of the large carparks are usually on dark grey, eye-level (from driver's position) signposts at the entrances to the carparks.
